

Crystal Chen

ABOUT ME

I was born in a beautiful city in China and came to the United States three years ago. That was actually a challenge for me because I had to learn a new language, make new friends, and adapt to the new environment. Fortunately, I already get used to the people and the environment here as time goes by. And I found that the United States is also an attractive country.

The first day in the United States

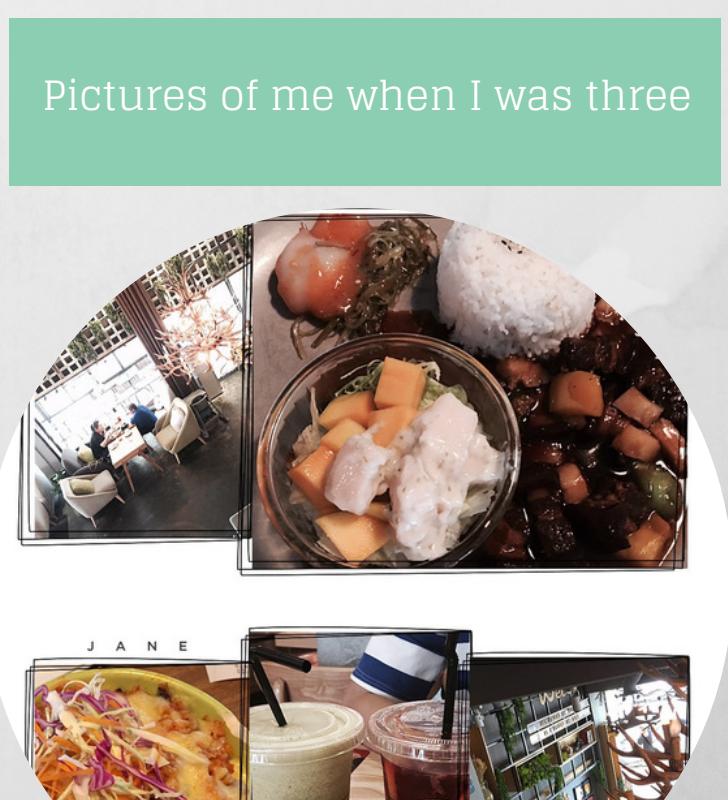

A picture of me and my cousin

Photo gallery of 2016

Pictures of me when I was three

The city I lived when I was in China

I love to try all kind of delicious food